When the World Cup field was extended from the traditional 16 to 24 teams, the debate over this "dilution" of soccer's greatest showcase was immediately launched and Immediately launched and atill continues.

There seems to be consensus among the "experts" that the appearance of countries like New Zealand, Kuait, Cameroon, Honduras and El Salvador will do nothing for the Improvement of top standards at the Mundial.

A Bundesliga manager in Germany stated, for instance, that "there, is no valid reason for having teams such as those at the World Cup".

Of course, there are dissenting opinions, such as that of English manager Ron Greenwood, who said that the most pleasing aspect of the draw for his nation is that England plays Kuwait last in the first round.

Despite uncertainty about whether Argentina and three British teams will compete because of the Falklands situation, preparations for the 1982 World Cup in Spain are on schedule for one of the world's premier sporting events.

The quadriennial tournament will peak with the championship game on July 11 in Madrid. A television audience estimated at 1.3 billion is expected to tune in on the opening ceremony in Barcelona on June 13.

The World Cup ignites emotions and kindles nationalistic fervor from Argentina to Zaire. Millions are spent to prepare teams for the big event, and nations literally have gone to war after a World Cup qualifying match. [E] Salvador and Honduras fought their 1969 "soccer war" over other, longstanding issues, but everyone remembers the immediate cause was a game.)

Every soccer pundit has a favorite World Cup tale. Italy's highly-paid superstars sneaked home at dawn in 1966 after North Korea had eliminated them from the tournament in England with a 1-0 upset. In 1950, the United States scored a stunning upset over England in Belo Horizonte, Brazil, by the same score. London's newspapers, bordered in black, announced a "dark day for England."
There is no chance of that happening this year. The United States, because of its chronic inability to beat Canada and Mexico, has failed to qualify for a World Cup since 1950.

since 1950.

And Australia, which achieved an upset of sorts in holding Chile to a draw in 1974, isn't there either.

Mig unite to a draw in 1974, isn't there either.

Most of the favorites in this year's tournament, which has been expanded from 16 to 24 teams, are showing signs of nervousness and are struggling to reach top form. Nobody seems anxious to repeat the mistake of West Germany, one of the favorites for the 1978 tournament in Argentina.

The Germans played exceptionally well in exhibition games in South America about a year before the tournament, but folded in the tournament — an obvious case of peaking too soon.

peaking too soon.

This year, the critics are wondering whether Brazil might not have done the same thing. A year ago, the Brazilians had a highly successful European tour, defeating the best teams on the continent. Their most recent tests, however, have been 1-1 ties and silm, unconvincing victories over uninspired competition, and coach Tele Santana has to be wondering if his team will be at peak form in Spain.

Although there is no clear-cut favorite, most experts are predicting the winner will be one of the last three champions — Argentina (1978), West Germany (1974) and Brazil (1970) — or one of two European dark horses — Spain, with the home field advantage, and the surprisingly strong Soviet Union.

Who will be the star of the 1982 World Cup?

Predictably, he will come from the winning team — and this narrows the field to the trom the winning team — and this narrows the field to the four favorites, Brazil, Germany, Argentina and Spain.

Most gurus, not unnaturally, tip Maradona, Zico, Rummenigge and Breitner to steal the 1882 show.

But I'm not so sure; don't be surprised if the No. 1 star of the series turns out to be a Spaniard such as Arconada, Zamora or Satrustegui.

The World Cup, as usual, will make and break many reputations. This has been the case at all World Cups I've see since the struning talent of Franz Beckenbauer — and turned out to be the graveyard of such celebrilles as Gariocha, Bellini, Rattin and half the Italian team. incha, Bellini, Ra the Italian team.

In 1970 everybody and his dog awalted the return of the great Pele — and then it was his team-mates Carlos Alberto, Gerson and Tostao who stole the show.

Four years later, in Germany, the great Beckenbauer was at his very peak; it was his World Cup but partly because the erratic genius of Johan Cruyff selected the final to produce a shocker.

Argentina, four years ago, failed to throw up a truly world class player and Marlo Kempes was elected as the choice of the Press because the others were even less distinguished.

Personally, I would have preferred Passarella, Krol or the Italian Bettega — but only had one vote ...

SPAIN: Goalie Arconada, midfielder Zamora, striker Satrustegul.

I guess the No. 1 star will come from this select group.

But I would like to suggest Australian TV viewers also keep an eye on the following:
Souness (Scotland), Camacho (Spain), Piatini (France), Conti (Italy), Fathi Kameel (Kuwalt), Urribe and Barbadillo (Peru), Bonlek (Poland), Kozak (Czechosiovakia), Shengelia, Kipiani and Burjak (USSR), Zajex, Surjak and Hailihodzie (Yasukand Hailihodzie (Yasukand Hailihodzie), Stelike, Breitner (Germany) Keegan and Hoddie (England), Diaz (Argentina), Pezzey and Prohaska (Austria) and the Belgian pair of Ceulemans and Van der Eycken.

BRAZII. is clear favourite to win the World Cup, according to an opinion poil carried out in 19 countries, and reflecting the views of 1,850 people.

Brazil took the vote of 24 per cent of people surveyed, ahead of West Germany (16 per cent), Argentina (11 per cent), Spain (seven per cent), England (three per cent), Chile, Scotland, Italy, Peru and the Soviet Union (all one per cent each).

At least McKendry gave us a State team capable of competing with full-time professional outflist from overseas.

How different it was last 4thursday! Victoria was a pitiful shadow of the well-drilled outfli we'd come to expect and respect in recent times, when it was humbled 4-0 by touring English side Watford.

The Vics played with two stoppers on Luther Blissett and Jimmy Gliligan. Both full-backs picked up Watford's dashing wingers. That means Victoria used four at the back against Watford's four from runners.

Then, lo and behold, John Gardiner bobbed up in mid-field.

Gardiner bobbed up in mid-field.

There was no sweeper to give cover to young Steve Blair and inexperienced State representative Stuart Cannell. These two went like lambs to the slaughter.

The decision to play without a sweeper was an open in-vitation to Watford to mount wave upon wave of assaults on the Victorian goal.

The tourists didn't have to work to create one-on-one situ-ations up front. Victoria had solved that problem for Wa-toff by deciding to play with-out a sweeper.

Gardiner no longer can play midfield against an opponent of Watford's standard. If he continues to allow himself to

There. It's done. I've blatantly "played coach", with no regrets, though. I was so disgusted by the shambles I watched last week that I felt impelled to voice my opinion. J.U.S.T. had a major goalscoring problem early this year. Not so now, as Lujic, Ristovski, Belic, Kojic and Ilioski all are eminently capable of putting the ball into the net.

Having led 3-1 against Heidelberg last week, J.U.S.T. tooks too strong and too classy for Adelaide City at home.

A victory here will leave J.U.S.T. with 15 points, firmly entrenched in the middle regions of the league.

And looking at the talent in the squad, there's no reason why J.U.S.T. can't go on with it. In a tight league even a spot in the top four is not beyond the realms of possibility.

A defensive mistake by Steve Beech gave Hellas its goal in the 32nd minute. Beech tried a backpass to his goalkeeper but it was too soft, enabling Charlie Egan to intercept and place the ball past Steve Potter.

Hellas had more of the midleld play and also was driven forward by left-back Alan Davidson making a comeback after injury.

Makedonia however, equalised in the 54th minute with a long range dipping shot by Petrovski after exchanging passes with Lucchesi.

Goalkeeper Potter prevented Hellas from going back into the lead when he pounced on the ball at the feet of Egan. Back to the South Melbourne team when he came on as a forward in place of Alun Evans in the S3rd minute.

The midfield battle was a

Hellas doing most of the playing and Makedonia most of the Helias doing most or the paging and Makedonia most of the spoiling. That, really, was the story of the match — more like the Falkland Islands war than a soccer game. Makedonia's goalkeeper Steve Potter again was faultess. Although he didn't have many hard shots to save, everything he did, he did with confidence and a very positive attitude.

For sheer fight and aggression, Steve Blair stood out in the Hellas team. He did everything that could be expected from him as stopper, and he as well supported by Arthur those knocks.

But this was not a match of memorable individual performances. The players out on the Connor Reserve pitch were soldiers defending their positions. Nothing else would be as accurate.

Wooddin to retire after World Cup?

Currently participating in New Zealand's World Cup build-up programme, Steve Wooddin remains adament that he will not be returning to Melbourne.

Wooddin has expressed his intention to settle in Auckland, but the transfer fee sought by South Melbourne Hellas — believed to be $30,000 appears to be beyond the resources of any New Zealand club.

It is no secret that the Liverpool-born player has experienced serious family problems stemming from his long periods away from home on soccer duty.

Throughout the game Slickers persisted in knocking long balls to Mitchell or Kosmina which more times than not were either headed away by Bennett or taken or punched by keeper Nigel Lowndes. A few balls to Mitchell's feet could have changed the whole game and perhaps even resulted in a few goals which would have brightened what was a boring match.

But for the Slickers it was two points which took them to the top of the table while for Lions, it seems many are thoping that the arrival of Sunderland will result in a reviral as the guest appearance of Bob Latchford did last year.

Giampaolo had the skill and the aggression to take on City's tough defence and it will indeed be surprising if the former Canberra City mile field-striker does not figure in Les Scheinflug's Socceroos plans over the next few years.

The JUST midfield of Belic, Ilioski and Milme had overshadowed Heldelberg's tepid trio, while Jim Kondarlos had won everything in the air against Gary Cole, so there was no reason to believe that the home side could lift itself from a two goal deficit.

Blacktown City Soccer Club which has experienced the trauma of being promoted to among the giants of the PSL as well as being relegated from the same League in a little less than two years, has learnt much the NSW 3rd division. it was apparent to those in the club's hierarchy, that a "roof over your head" is the next step. The junior arm of the almost defunct Toongable and District Soccer club stepped in to purchase the land which was to become clubs property. Peter Thorne, the then president of the club, decided to purchase the land from the local council for the amount of unpaid rates (some $2000) and that was the start of the big things which happened to this soccer club over the next eight years.

The decision at the end of 1979 to include Blacktown City in the PSL hit home. All those Sydney siders for whom Blacktown meant little (an out of the way bush sealised that Blacktown was that part of Sydney which deserves a chance against the best.

It was a historic event. Since then the club has come back to the Cocacon State League of NSW, but the boom of 1980 is still fresh in people's memory.

How did it happen?

As every event in history is carefully recorded, so should this one be and credit given where it is due.

For those who might just have arrived from the European shores, it is important to note that soccer in Australia is "small fry" compared with most countries.

It is for that reason that the game always has depended on a few enthusiastic souls with no financial rewards. This was all the more so in the early 50's, when a group of enthusiastic amateurs Promotion brings joy but also the problems which in some cases are to big to overcome. Most "experts" predicted a quick exit for the young Demons, giving them "Buckley's" of staying in the PSL. The Demons were tagged the easy-beats and 'relegation favorites".

For Mis Jones, the coach, it was a great thrill, but also the hardest job of his life, as he remarked to questions by the Press.

Their exit from the national league to make way for St George, surprised just as much as the decision to have Blacktown in the PSL two years before. The long and tedious process of producing local players has started. They will not compete in League encounters, giving them a distinctive advantage. They will not have unnecessary pressure put upon them.

The Argentines are likely to start a lineup returning nine of the 11 players who started the 1978 final in Buenos Aires, plus two superstars: goal scorer Ramon Diaz, 22. and playmaker Diego Mandena, 21, who has been compared with former Brazilian star 12. West Germany also is deep and experienced. It has rebuilt considerably, however, since 1978, when it lost to Austria, 32, in a key match. West Germany will be led by two stars from European Cup finalist Bayern Munich, attacker Karl-Beliaz Rummeniges and midfield leader Paul Breitner, who finished 1-2 in the woring for Europe's Player of the Year in 1981. It also has two prolific goal scorers in Horst Hrubesch of Hamburg and Klaus Flucher of Cologne.

Brazil is led by superstar Zico (whose real name is Artur Colmbra, but notody in Brazil knows him by that name), and a 28-year-old midfielder who happens to be a real M.D., Dr Socrates. Brazil is very talented, and if Zico plays well, this team may win an unprecedented fourth World Cup.

As the host team, Spain is under a great deal of pressure. Much of its success depends on a nucleus of players from a team in the independent-minded Basque country, league champion Real Sociedad of San Sebastian.

They include world-class goalkeeper Luls Arconada, miditelders Jesus Zamora and Miguel Alonso, winger Roberto Lopez Ularte and striker Jesus Satrustegui. The importance of the Basques to the Spanish team's success is one reason many Spanish observers feel that Basque terrorists are likely to keep their attempts at disruption to a minimum, although they have been sending mixed signals on this score.

The other dark-horse favorite, the Soviet Union, will rely on three players who finished in the top 10 in the voting for Europe's Player of the Year, particularly attackers Oleg Blokhin of Dynamo Klev and Ramas Shengellya of Dynamo Flotte on Powneyer, the Soviets' hopes have been dampened somewhat by two key hijuries. The talented David Kiplanh has a bad hly, and a mysterious alliment has slowed playmaker Leond Burlak.

The other teams given some chance at winning everything are two of the three British teams in the tournament: England, led by Southampton's Kevin Keegan, and Scotland, which may find thard to get into the second round, since it is in the toughest firstround group with both Brazil and the Soviets.

At this point most observers expect England, Scotland and Northern Ireland to play despite the Falkiands Crisis. Nell MacFarlane, Britain's Minister for Sport, told Parilament last week that the Thatcher government would not ask the three teams to stay home.

not to send teams should the Falklands fighting produce heavy casualties.

Political boycotts of World Cup competitions are rare, although a number of teams in the 1800s stayed home for technical and sports-political reasons.

In 1874, the Soviets passed up what was considered a near-certain trip to the finals in West Germany, refusing to play a qualifying match in Chile because the Chilean junta was holding political prisoners in Santlago's National Stadium. This was the closest the postwar era has had to a political boycott of the final round.

Green Gully Ajax can draw level at the top of the Victorian State League ladder by beating arch rival Croatia on Sunday at Green Gully Reserve.

I'm going for Ajax because man for man, it's got the best squad of players in the league. The John Gardiner-Stuart Cannell central defensive partnership is the best in the league and although young David Hogben swill be unavailable through suspension, Ajax David Hogben will be unavail-former East Fife defender

The former Slavia and Heidelberg winger is fitting into a left-sided midfield role well. Williams and team mate Gordon Wallace are fine crossers of the ball, an ominous sign for Croatia when you consider Gas Macleod's heading ability.

One of the match highlights will be the confrontation between Ken Murphy and Ajax right back Peter Lewis.

Murphy's ability to control the ball at high speed and get in behind defenders is the greatest threat to Ajax's hopes of victory.

My first letter this week comes from Alan Cook of Glen Waverley (Vic).

Nearly every day in the propular press we are greeted with pictures of footy stars, promoting this, promoting that, but mainly promoting themselves and their code.

"We also get pretty girls in footy guernseys, TV stars talking about their favorite teams and overseas media stars being taken advantage of as soon as they hit Melbourne.

advantage of as soon as they hit Melbourne.

We have had Abba in Carton guernseys. Ethon John Chairman of Watford Soccer Club) pictured with a 5t. Kilda jersey and even the visiting Hungarian soccer team trying its luck at the MCG.

The point I am trying to make is not to knock the VFL promotions. I think they are doing a fentiastic job to promote Aussia Rules, but what can you tell me as a player at international level, about what is happening to promote soccer at international and PSL level? When are we going to see cards in cornflake packets with Gary Cole. Alan Davidson and Spitch "Maher on them?"

Why wasn't Elmo John approached to promote the code in Melbourne?

Why aren't any of the Soccesson suddling Opal clothes on the TV.2 What are Ric Booth and his P.R. men doing?

"Let's get soccer speedsters in the Stawell Gift on TV. Some stamine men in the Big M Marathon and local for nurs. Let's use Rod Stewart when he comes out sign and local for nurs. Let's use Rod Stewart when he comes out sign on Lou Richards, but for heaven sake let's do something other than light amogst ourselves verbailly and be ridiculed on TV.

That being an excellent observation and comment on the extent of promotion of soccer, there is not much I can say in answer to it.

"Ric Booth is the man with the answers but wether he would or could give answers would be interesting.

What I can say is that while being a Heldelberg and Australian player, nobody has approached me regarding promotion of anything, and never having seen any P.S.L. or other Australian soccerplayer involved in any promotion, I would say that promotion deesn't happen. What can be done about it I would not know. That is Mr Booth's province.

Perhaps he might like to hire Alan Cook as his Melbourne-based publicity man. That might be a start.

The occasion of course was the visit of Watford and the man who brought it home was Watford's manager, Graham Taylor.

What an honest, well-spoken and friendly person this guy is. His opinions of the game are simplicity itself and he would certainly be the most uncomplicated person I have met.

Paddy Gerard, former Manchester Utd player, once sald that when Jock Stein. Matt Busby and Bill Shankly spoke about soccer, a six-year-old boy could understand them. I'm sure Graham Taylor fits into this category as he talks about his favourite subject. He is never short of words, as I'm sure he would talk underwater with a mouth full of marbles, but his uncomplicated philosophy on the game makes him easy to understand.

This helps him to cement the superb relationship which exists between him and his team, which is friendly respectful but at the same time nobody is left in doubt about who is the box.

Dympic Park, a very good earn.

Often close-season tours are viewed as end-of-season relaxation periods for the touring teams which effects their approach to games. Not so on this occasion, as bubbling, effervescent Watford, fresh from their entry into the English First Division, were eager to show off the style that brought about this success. To listen to Taylor at training and also on the bench at Olympic Park left one in no doubt what he expected from his players. Their competitive approach to the game was epitomised by the action of Eric Rostrow three minutes from time as the action of Eric Rostrow three minutes from time as the action of the Victoria with his team leading 40. They go out of their way to make you welcome and their hospitality is usually second to none weeks ago about a trip I made with Mike Sinclair's All-Stars to Merimbula at the end of last season. Peter Ollerton, Graham French, Willie Coulson, Harry McKinlay, Les Thompson, Peter Vaughan, Derek Balley, Mike Plunkett, Barry O'Tool and myself had a marvellous week-end there. We presented some trophies to juniors before the game, played the game, and then were guests at the Merimbula Grasshoppers presentation night.

joyed our presence and we certainly enjoyed their hospitality. The only problem with these trips is the fact that they can lake place only at the end or beginning of a season. This is due to the fact that commitments during the season make trips to the country impossible. The real way to promote soccer throughout the State is or un a true State League, with teams from all the larger country areas taking part. This would be virtually impossible to organise because of long distances, need for a big sponsor and the fact that teams from the city would be extremely rejuctant to release their grip on the monopoloy they have.

pride the spur for

Scots are known for their legendary thrift, but there is another characteristic which is even more typical of them - national pride!

This sense of pride in their tiny nation was further increased by the successes of the World Cup eliminations. Of the other British teams, the Ulstermen were still struggling to make it, and the despised Sassenachs seemed to be left without a hope following their defeat in Oslo, when the Blue-and-Whites were already home and hosed. In fact, Scotland followed in the wake of Argentina, Brazil, Poland, West Germany and Italy to become the sixth nation to qualify for its third World Cup final in a row. Alas, on the debit side of the ledger, their last two appearances resulted in first round eliminations. But the irony continues when it is recalled that Scotland was the only unbeaten team in West Germany (draw against Brazil and Yugoslavia and a 2-0 defeat of Zairee). In Argentina two early shocks — 1-3 against Peru and 1-1 against Iran — meant elimination of the state of Merger for UK sides?

If England, Scotland and Northern Ireland do withdraw from the World Cup to could mean the end for them as separate teams. For a powerful FIFA lobby could renew demands that the three plus Wales merge into a Great Britain side. Objections to the four tier British participation in the World Cup has been going on now for 30 years. But make no mistake the British teams will flight all the way to preserve their separate identities.

Kuwait skipper Al Houti's lucky number is six. For that's the number he wears on his jersey, the number of his house and his car has a six numbers letter-plate.

Scotland's squad will go to Spain with individual contracts in their pockets which will ensure there is no repetition of the financial problems which besotted them in the 1978 finals in Argentine.

Ringwood Wilhelmina frightened the life out of Juventus in the Dockerty Cup and is set to give Croydon a torrid time in their local derby at Croydon Park on Sunday.

torrid time in their Wilhelmina winger Ken Stewart was the engineer of his team's fightback against the black and the whites and his clash with Croydon't Mark Brown will play a vital role in the outcome of this derby. Croydon coach Ken Kontra probably will bring lan Loughnane into the starting line-up. The goal ace came on as a substitute against Altona City last things all his own way in the air Croydon probably will start favorite but Wilhelmina is very underrated. I certainly wouldn't like to split these sides.

David Corke is in fine form for Croydon on the right wing. That's going to be a problem for de Bruyckere who is having trouble covering the loss of left back Tony McDermott, due to return soon from Britain.

George Cross can bounce back from its 6-2 cup thrashing by Ajax and knock off Morwell Falcons at Chaplin Reserve on Sunday.

season unfolds.

Some of the Frankston players though won't be unhappy to see their former team mate at Hellas. These players were joking at the Watford match last week that with Holford gone the money from his transfer can go to paying wages and signing-on fees for this season.

Doveton has unearthed a fine young talent in teenage striker Warren Spinks how-ever the youngster could find the tough Sunshine defence an insurmountable barrier at Waratah Reserve on Sunday.

Sunshine should take the points. It looks too well drilled and talented for the struggling Doves, while Polonia surely won't slip up against undermanned Northcote at John Cain Reserve.

Plucky comeback falters foiled at the final hurdle when State Leaguer Croydon scraped home 6-5 in an exciting penalty showdown.

Croydon looked to be home in a canter when it led 2-0 in the 80th milutie.

Ian Dobson's far post free kick in the 15th minute was headed back across goal by Steve McCombe and David Corke slotted the ball away from close range.

Then, after the break, Dobson made a fine diagonal run to the near post to head in Corke's corner.

Altona's culprits in the finale were Ivan delam, who shot over, and Alan Littley and Dave Collins, whose penalty attempts when the Croydon area was deflected, sending keeper Mick Edwards the wrong way.

Scores were levelled shortly after when Mercer again took a free kick from attack.

BY Combe came close in extra time with a bit sides were forced into a penalty attempts and Dave Collins, whose penalty attempts and the Poel saved Peter Tkachuk's attempt. It was left to Croydon right back Mark Brown to score the decisive goal from the spot.

The turning point in this fast, exciting encounter came just after half time with Frankston Pines leading 2-1. The half was kicked off the Falcons goal line to deny Pines from taking what could have been a vital two goal lead.
Falcons though had opened the match as if they were determined to wipe Pines off the face of Centenary Park.
In the third minute Brian Keenan fouled Nigel Danlels on Falcons right, Grant Smart's floated free kick found Pines keeper Dave Stutchbury in two minds. Stutchbury in two minds. Stutchbury came out of goal, called, but couldn't stop Noel Mitten from back heading into the far corner.

Six minutes later David Hogben was sent off for a tackle on Damien Morgan. The Cross defender also was given his marching orders for retallating against Hogben.

Ajax increased its lead in the 59th minute when the ever alert Paul Lewis ran onto a fine through ball and slotted it under the body of the advancing "Rocky" Tachiris.

Another Macleod header, again from a Wallace cross put the game well and truly out of Cross's reach then the big Gully striker notched his hat-trick when Paul Lewis again broke clear and tried to slot the ball past Tachiris. The ball bounced off the George Cross keeper and Macleod had to trouble hammering it into the unguarded goal.

A long clearance from the beleagured George Cross defence dropped to Carl Gilder who looked offside. The linesman flagged but play was waved on and Gilder soloted the ball past Lou Denys to make it 5-2.

Ajax didn't relent though and completed the destruction of George Cross with the best goal of the match — Smallman's diving header from about 10 metres.

Ken Murphy was lurking at the far post when a cross came over from the right. Murphy looked to be trying to head back across goal but the ball deflected off Frank Mussel and into the Sunshine net.

Croatia struck first in the 30th minute. Josip Biskic's corner from the right sent the ball to the near post where the incoming Jozo Antolovic missed with a header. Steve Gojevic was there to strike the ball into the roof of goal from about 10

Ints was an absolutely abysmal game between two bad teams out of form.

To be fair, credit must go to Werribee considering its lowly status compared to that of its State League opponent but this looked like the reserve game before the big match.
Frankston was without Kevin Wall, Billy Buchanan and Andy Golby — all injured — while Carl Holford had been transferred to South Melbourne Helias. Dave Gilbert was on the bench.
If Frankston is to have any hope of going further in the Dockerty Cup it will need a full squad and a few new players from which to pick its starting eleven.
For the record, Mitchell, Drinozcky, Cooke, Gonsalves and Tutill scored Frankston's penalties at the end. Lord, Laing, Crosier and Dimitriou repiled for Werribee. Reardon missed with the last kick of the match and Frankston had scraped in. — MICK O'BRIEN

Di Stephano, who has been appointed manager for next season, scored three goals for Real in its 7-3 victory over West Germany's Eintpacht Frankfurt in the 1960 European Cup final in Glasgow on May 18.

The "Blond Arrow", born in Argentina and one of the most complete footballers in the history of the game, spent Il seasons at Real between 1953 and 1984 and played in five of its six European Cup victories.

Di Stefano, who has spent the last 18 years coaching in Spain and Argentina, said his return to Real "fills me with pride as a sportsman and as a man

"I've come to fight to make Real Madrid the best," he added. He led Valencia to the European Cup-Winners' Cup in 1980 and Real fans will be hoping Di Stefano still retains the magic touch.

DI Stefano refused comment on rumors that he was hoping to sign Argentine super-star Diego Maradona who has also been linked with Barcelona, Real's arch-rival.

Clive Campbell the hero

NSW State League with ALEX VESIC

Blacktown Demons best Crostis at the Gabbie Stadium in a spiteful game to draw even with Croatie on points, and advance to third spot on the league ladder, while Riv-erwood went to the top following its win over JM United at Hurstville by two goals to one.

Both sides wanted to prove their worth in the Gabble clash with Blacktown almost having to win to stay in the race for the league title. It did just that but suffered a casualty with Michael Quarmby being taken to hospital with a suspected broken nose after a clash with Peter Hensman in centre field. In the end it was the team which wanted to win more which took the points inflicting a second defeat on Croatia for the season. Melita Eagles faitered badly which wanted to win more which took the points inflicting a second defeat on Croatla for the season.

Melita Eagles faltered badly at Melita Stadium desplite the presence of Ernie Campbell, signed only last week from St George. Campbell showed touches of brilliance towards the end of Melita's game against Canterbury, but far too late for his side to pull out of trouble.

Riverwood continued to "stroll", beating JM United with both goals coming from Terry Jones. These two goals put Jones in the lead for top scoring honurs for the year with Walker, another Riverwood player, in hot pursuit. Bankstown defeated Yugal at the Soccer Centre in a goal scoring spree which saw six at the Soccer Centre in a goal scoring spree which saw six the saw six on the record the goals, one each way, with his first being an own goal after only two minutes and his second, Yugal's stopper scored two goals, one each way, with his first being an own goal after only two minutes and his second, Yugal's stirler goal in the End minute.

This win by Bankstown lifts it over Rockdale, did not move up from last spot but celebrated anyway, since it was its first win of the season.

Avala walloped Manly War-ringah at Knight Park by 3-0, erasing memories of two heavy defeats suffered at the hands of Manly last season. Manly was handicapped by the absence of Terry Smith, while Avala showed touches which should put this side closer to the top then the bottom of the table by the season's end.

It was a rough and tumble affair at the Gabble in the derby of the round with Blacktown running out winner over Croatia by 2-1 at the end of the 80 minute period.

Croatia by 21 at the end of the 98 minute period.

The win however did not come cheap as young prospect Michael Quarmby was carried off and later taken to hospital following a tackle by Croatia's winger Peter Hensman.

Blacktown's new signing. Clive Campbell from Wollongong turned out to be the match winner as he continuously found holes in Croatia's midfield. It was Campbell who set Blacktown on their way to a deserved win when he accepted a neat pass by Geraldo Gomez on the edge of the penalty area before lobbing it over the advancing Steve Watson to make it 1-0.

Campbell hit a Feredus 28th minute which
